

GB Wins Health and Safety Award at CN Quality Awards

We are absolutely delighted to announce that we have won an award at the Construction News Quality Awards in the category of Health & Safety Small Company.

We promoted our innovative 'WIPE' campaign to be part of the best of the construction industry.

The CNQ Awards is a celebration of the quality demonstrated by the UK construction industry encouraging innovation, management best practise and team work. Through 13 different categories, the awards seek to recognise projects and companies that strive to achieve a high standard of work, cooperation and client satisfaction whilst also maintaining a healthy and safe working environment, an awareness of issues surrounding CSR and sustainability and a commitment to staff training and business improvement.

The Awards proved to be a fantastic night, bringing together over 600 of the construction industry's professionals to honour those who have performed outstandingly over the last year.

Nick Edwards, editor of Construction News magazine commented:

"This is one of my favourite nights of the year – that's because it's our chance to celebrate everything that is great about this industry. The projects, the people, the constant striving to do a better job. Celebrating quality gets even more important in tough times...."

...Many of the entries in this year's awards show how companies are fighting hard to maintain and strengthen their relationships – and you will hear tonight about the fantastic things they are achieving as a result. It's why we put so much effort into making sure the industry's clients know about the awards and the showcase they represent of the industry's best and brightest."
