

Northampton University Visit RMHF

First and second year Architectural Technology students from Northampton University visited the Cliftonville RMHF Site for the second time last week to see how far the project had progressed since their first visit back in May.

The students were very impressed and grateful for the opportunity, especially one student in particular who is currently working on a dissertation looking into mental health facilities and gained a lot from the presentation and visit around site. The student has requested to come back and have a one on one session with Dave Sizer – Project Director to assist with his studies.

“Thank you for two fantastic visits to site this week. Students are very appreciative and have gained a great deal from the opportunity”
